According to the team's representative Susan Supang Yee, the charity run organised by Sarawak Children's Cancer Society (SCCS) has done tremendous work in disseminating information about childhood cancer over the years.

"Therefore the Moving Communities – a community action team that is made up of multi-racial women in Miri – is ready to go all out in encouraging the people in Miri as well as those from other places to come and support this cause," she said during a press conference here yesterday, adding that the team is working actively in encouraging more people to join the run, which enters its sixth edition this year.

SCCS president Jocelyn Hee, who received the registration forms from Susan, expressed her appreciation to Moving Communities and also the public for their support to the run.

"Our target for the Miri leg is 3,300 runners. So far, we have registered 2,000 participants. We are looking forward to seeing more people sign up for the run," she said.

The handover of forms was witnessed by SCCS advisor Datuk Lorna Enan Muloon, who is also the patron of Moving Communities.
